

Country	Scotland
Region/Province/ or State
Web Address	https://www.westerrossbiosphere.com
Date Founded	2016
Size (hectares)	529,904
Distinguishing Features	wild, rugged mountains, remote glens and long, steep sided straths (valleys), which extend down to the sea
Main Industries (in terms of employment)	Stock breeding

The Wester Ross Biosphere was created in April 2016 when the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) formally recognised our area of Northern Scotland as a Biosphere Reserve. The Biosphere family is made up of members be they private individuals or local organisations. Their common aim to promote the development of a sustainable economy and society in Wester Ross.